Focus on...New Genesis Financial

By Chip Colandreo, OWSL

There's something different about New Genesis Financial and its owner Ramona Brookins. It's not the Bachelors degree in accounting from Florida A&M University or Masters degree in Accountancy from the University of Phoenix. Nor is it Ramona's industry experience, including ten years as a manager and professional accountant in the corporate world as well as being a college professor. Rather, it's the feeling clients get when working with Ramona at her office located in the SunTrust building on Mitchell Hammock Road and Alafaya Trail.

At New Genesis Financial, accounting and taxes just don't seem so scary. "I try to take the fear out of it, especially during tax time," Ramona says with her trademark confidence and positivity. "I help clients in being proactive and taking control of their finances. It's a 'don't-let the-IRS-happen-to-you' kind of attitude. I want everyone to understand their taxes are not a once-a-year proposition."

Ramona's flat-fee "No Worries" tax preparation program for 1040 filers embodies that philosophy. The package includes return prep with audit support, comparisons and projections to past and future tax years, and even a mid-year tax review during summertime at no extra charge.

"Financial peace of mind should be available to and affordable for everyone," says Ramona; and at New Genesis Financial, it is. ♦ OWSL
